

Integrate your web applications with Articulate Online

Now you can integrate your Articulate Online (AO) account with your other applications such as your e-commerce system, user databases, and other line of business applications.

Trigent has worked with other Articulate customers to develop enabling software that works with AO API's to manage the entire process of content provisioning and user management. Now you can automate user authentication, enable single sign-on, integrate with your line of business applications, and monetize your e-learning courses.

Here's an example of how the API works to sell courses:

1. Create and publish your Articulate content to AO, create a group with necessary access for each logical group of content material that will be sold online
2. Put up the content for sale, each with a unique id
3. Trigent develops software to gather user & purchased course details and provisions the users into appropriate groups & course access rights using AO APIs.

Benefits

- Seamless access to AO for your customers
- Manage your users/accounts/groups through your application

 - Add new users, assign to groups with associated courses
 - Update profile information if user exists previously
 - Initiate AO to send user credentials.
 - Does not include any charges for the API from Articulate.
